CHICAGO PROFESSIONAL COLLEGES

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Thousands of hands join together in the Medical Center District of Chicago, the largest concentration of health facilities in the world, to heal the suffering and carry on the research which maintains our high health standards. Among the institutions located here are the Cook County Hospital, Stritch School of Medicine, Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital, Loyola Dental School and Chicago Medical School. A key institution in this center is the University of Illinois Chicago Professional Colleges with its Colleges of Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, Graduate College and Research and Educational Hospital. We trust that the following pages will portray its educational, research, social and athletic facets and will serve as a memento of hard but fruitful years of study.

In this initial yearbook of the Chicago Professional Colleges, greetings should first go to members of the editorial and production staff — with appreciation for their initiative and their service, and congratulations for their achievement.

Years hence — perhaps after a long time — many of you will again pick up this volume and find it an album of pleasant recollections. It will brighten memories of friendships, of happy events, of exciting experiences. I hope, however, that it will be something more than a personal record, that it will be a permanent reminder of the place of the University in the lives of thousands of people and through them the welfare of the State.

There is no more dramatic example of the relationship of the University and the welfare of the people than in the work of the Chicago Professional Colleges. I hope that through the service of each one of you in the health professions, countless numbers of people will come to a fuller recognition of the meaning of the University's mission.

In a world of tension and diplomatic stalemate, the international character of medicine and all branches of public health takes on added significance. In the days ahead, all the professions will be called upon to provide more services to more people and be expected to break through to new frontiers in the advancement of knowledge for the benefit of people everywhere.

Congratulations to the Executive Student Council and to the students and University staff members whose cooperation and untiring efforts have made possible the introduction of a yearbook for the Chicago Professional Colleges. May the success of this undertaking be a continuing challenge to each succeeding generation of students.

Located as it is in the center of an evolving Medical Center District and a major metropolitan area of the Nation, this division of the University of Illinois is able to provide an unusual range of opportunities for students preparing for a life of service to man in one of the health professions. Because of the farsighted actions of our predecessors we have all been enriched through the provision of the means to conduct outstanding and distinguished educational, research and service programs.

This new yearbook may be viewed as one of many responses of the student body at the Chicago Professional Colleges to the ever present need to strengthen and improve what we have found here. It is an excellent and most welcome addition to the extracurricular program for students. In essence, it reflects the strong desires of students in these professional colleges to participate responsibly and effectively.

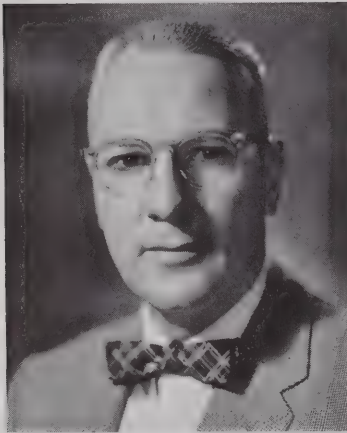

With such motivation and dedication your service in your chosen profession will surely fulfill the high expectations of those whose support has made possible your experiences here.

ISAAC SCHOUR, D.D.S., Ph.D., D.Sc.
Dean

A pioneering attitude toward dental education prevails at the sixty-seven-year-old College of Dentistry. This is exemplified by the inauguration of television as a teaching medium and by the plans that are being laid for its expanding utilization in the future. Also, a dental assistants program was initiated last year which trains young women to perform the duties of chairside assisting and at the same time demonstrates to the dental student the advantages of such assisting.

Emphasis on research, teaching, and service is constantly a prime concern of the college. An ever-increasing number of grants-in-aid offer tangible support to the many individual projects of faculty members and students, both graduate and undergraduate.

Facilities and equipment in the dental clinics are of the most modern design. Fully equipped operating units are provided in the major clinical departments to simulate the privacy of a dental office. Here the student, under careful faculty supervision, renders the required dental treatment to selected patients. More than 9,000 patients are treated in the dental clinics annually.

The College of Dentistry, a part of the University of Illinois Chicago Professional Colleges, was originally an independent, proprietary institution. It was founded in 1892 as the Columbian Dental College, becoming the Illinois School of Dentistry in 1898. It was first affiliated with the University of Illinois in 1901, and was called the School of Dentistry until 1905 when its name was changed to the College of Dentistry. In 1913 the college became an organic part of the university.

In 1958 the College of Dentistry offered for the first time a full schedule of courses to the prospective dental assistant. Through seven months of study and personal attention each assistant learns the specific procedures required in each phase of dentistry. Each assistant works in the operative, denture, pedodontic, oral surgery, therapeutic, radiology, and crown and bridge departments, where she assists the dental student.

Besides the clinical practice, the assistant attends regularly scheduled classes where she learns theory based on technique work. She learns how to manage an efficient and smooth running dental office which will facilitate the working time of the dentist.

The denture laboratory and clinic are conveniently located next to each other. Here, under the supervision of instructors, students work for four or five weeks to construct a complete set of dentures.

Dental clinics provide experience, practice,

A room on the eleventh floor has been converted to a studio for closed circuit television. This unique teaching device brings small objects to many eyes. Although watching the lecture on another floor, students are able to ask questions through an intercommunication system.

Of great importance in the field of dentistry is the correct diagnosis of all cases presented. Here in the admitting clinic all patients are given a complete dental examination. A medical history is recorded to facilitate more effective treatment. All examinations done by the students are under the supervision of the faculty.

confidence and assurance for future dentists

In the operative technique laboratories the sophomore student learns the fundamentals of operative procedures. Instruction is given in both the biological and mechanical aspects of tooth restoration. Each student is required to prepare all the major classes of tooth preparations with emphasis on amalgam, inlay and foil restorations.

. . . . . the assuring hands of the physician

GRANVILLE A. BENNETT, M.D.
Dean

The College of Medicine of the University of Illinois was established in 1913 when the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago, which had been affiliated with the University since 1897, became an integral part of the University of Illinois. During most of its early history it was located north of Cook County Hospital in the area now forming Louis Pasteur Park. In 1931 the College was moved to its present quarters on Polk Street. In 1941 the Presbyterian Hospital (now merged with St. Luke's Hospital) became affiliated with the University and members of the faculty of Rush Medical College were incorporated into the faculty of the College of Medicine.

In terms of student enrollment the University of Illinois College of Medicine is among the three largest medical schools in the United States. Proportionate to the size of the student body, the College has a large faculty (more than 1,200 distinguished physicians and scientists), and a large and stable budget and fine physical facilities.

The future of the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois is indeed bright. With unrelenting and properly coordinated efforts on the part of members of the student body, the alumni and the faculty and staff, the College of Medicine is assured of a very high place among the best medical schools of the nation.

Alpha Kappa Kappa

Alpha Kappa Kappa, with forty-one active chapters, was founded on September 29, 1888, at Dartmouth Medical School, Hanover, New Hampshire. Eta Chapter was organized a year later. The purpose of the fraternity is to promote and better social relationships, mental development and mutual assistance. Some of the outstanding house events of the year are the tri-chapter formal with the University of Chicago and Northwestern chapters, the Senior Farewell and the Founders' Day Banquet. The invitation of a faculty member and his family to Friday dinner is a unique idea of Eta Chapter to promote better student faculty relationships.

Nu Sigma Nu

The oldest American medical fraternity in existence today is Nu Sigma Nu, founded in 1882. The Eta chapter at the College of Medicine was founded in 1892 and has grown to an active chapter of over one hundred members.

The fraternity offers social, scholastic, and athletic activities as well as a means of fraternal living to a group of students with a common interest in medicine. Nu Sigma Nu as an organization has provided the association and friendship which make such corporate activities possible and thus make the training years more enjoyable and beneficial.

Alpha Alpha chapter has 144 undergraduate members. The fraternity serves the student at several levels. Besides fellowship, the student is offered scholastic guidance by upperclassmen.

Members participate in most of the intramural events as well as numerous off-campus sports. Socially there are dances, parties, exchanges, outings and bridge tournaments. Each year a tri-chapter dance is held with Chicago Medical School and Northwestern University.

Phi Delta Epsilon's national foundation promotes scholarship and research by awards and grants and annually brings outstanding men in medicine to campuses all over the country for the Phi Delta Epsilon lectureship.

Surgery in the Medical Research Laboratory is performed with the same care as in R & E Hospital.

Student Research Forum

Research opportunities for students at the University of Illinois Chicago Professional Colleges are steadily increasing. These are made possible through summer fellowships, assistantships from research grants and special fellowships. The student may undertake an almost independent research project leading to a graduate degree or he may ally himself with a senior investigator on research projects already in progress. Most of the leaders in the practice of medicine or in medical education have come from those who availed themselves of the opportunity of a medical research experience.

Effects of compression and depression upon the human body are studied in these huge tanks in the physical environment laboratory.

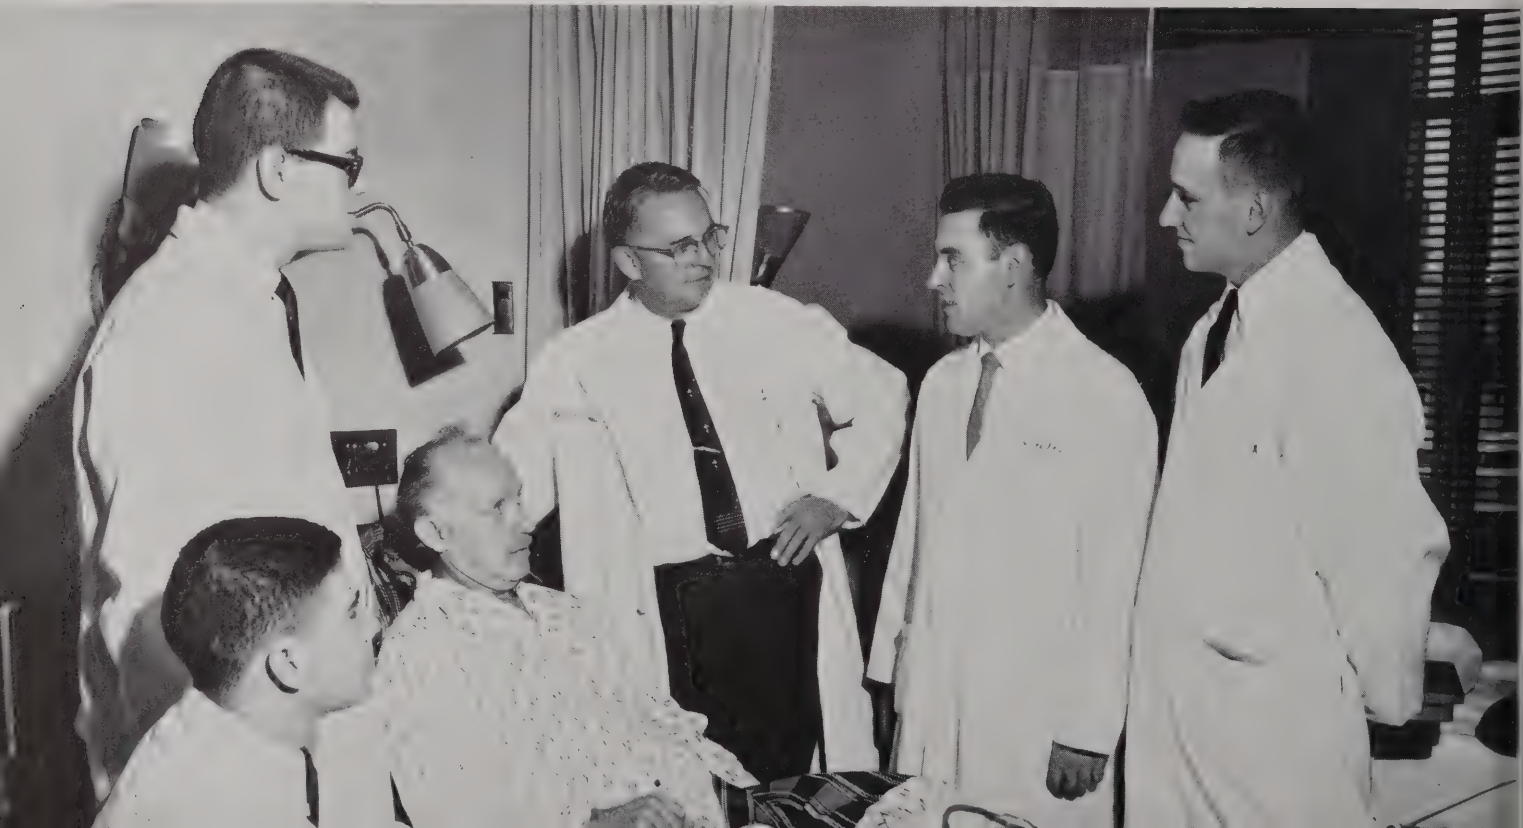

The word anatomy was used by the ancient Greeks to mean a dissection, but the scope of anatomy now includes structure, morphology and embryology. The anatomy laboratory provides the foundation of knowledge for the student's future work in medicine.

Medical Clinics provide practical application

The bed patient presents a situation which requires of the physician and student physician, character and personality traits which typify the profession. It is in this situation where the student gains knowledge from senior physicians.

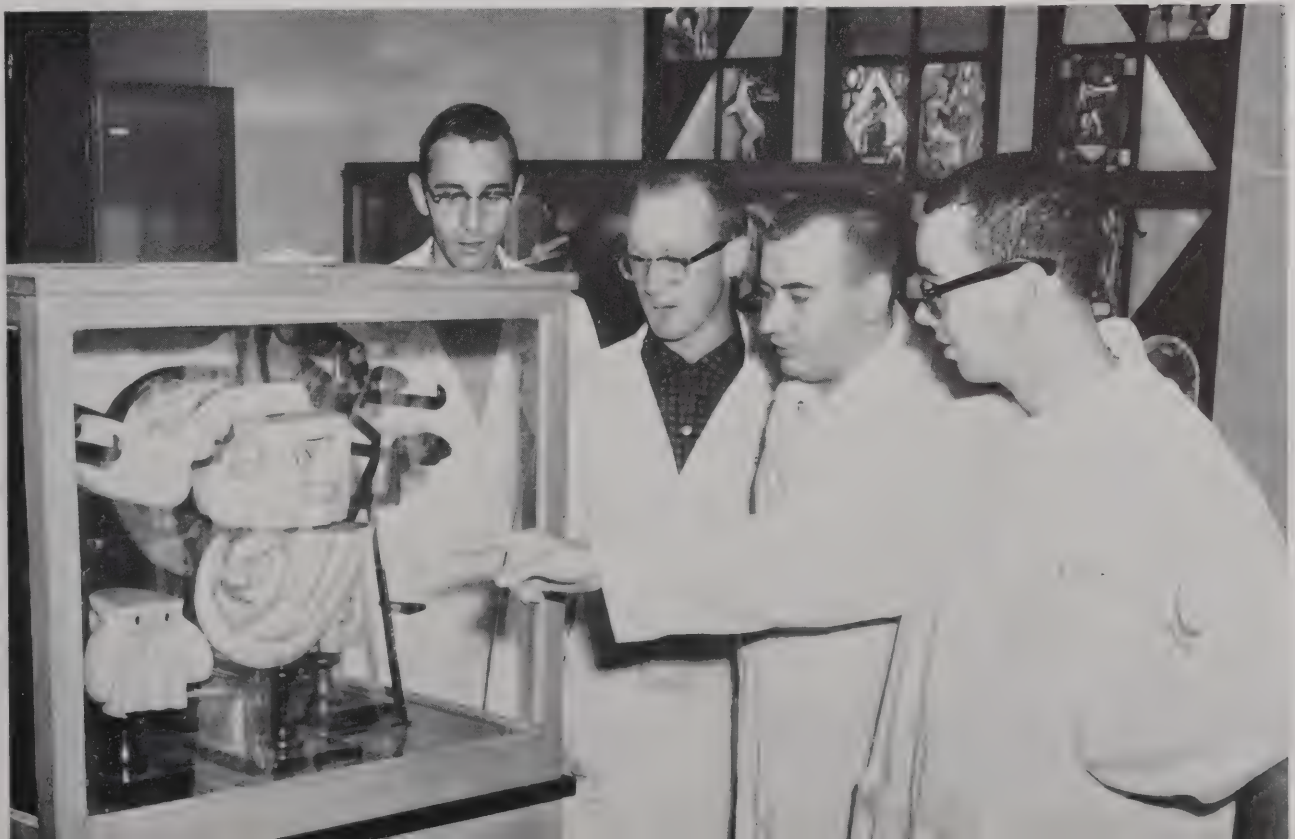

The Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic provides care for the patient with problems related to all aspects of the head and neck. The otolaryngologist is proficient in all aspects of the head and neck including anatomy, physiology and pathology. In the clinic this knowledge is passed on to the student of medicine.

of the many theories medical men must have

The anatomy museum provides the history of medicine which is preserved here to assist in broadening the scope of the medical student's knowledge. In the tradition of Celsus, Hippocrates, and Galen, the student can relive the scientific findings and traditions of his profession.

Department of Occupational Therapy

The curriculum in Occupational Therapy includes a broad background in liberal arts as well as the sciences. Three years of college work on the Urbana campus are followed by sixteen consecutive months in the College of Medicine and affiliating hospitals. A Bachelor of Science Degree in Occupational Therapy is granted by the College of Medicine to those who successfully complete the five-year curriculum. To acquire national professional recognition graduates must pass the examination of the American Occupational Therapy Association.

Illi-Sota, the Illinois Student Occupational Therapy Association, originated on the Urbana campus in March, 1944, the year the curriculum was inaugurated. When the students progressed to the Chicago campus, a second division was established. Purposes of this organization are to identify members in the curriculum as a group, to acquaint students with the profession, and to promote social interests among its members. The Chicago division of Illi-Sota participates in various campus events, such as the Winter Carnival. They also plan field trips for students from the Urbana campus, social events for students and staff, and are represented on the Medical Student Council as well as the Union Building committees.

Occupational therapy students get experience being both patient and therapist.

It all started with a skeleton. Soon it was a cadaver and finally, a live patient. Here the girls get together to review the "skeleton" of their problems.

Emphasis is placed on theories of visual instruction and the growing responsibility of the illustrator for the improvement of medical education through all types of graphic media.

COLLEGE OF NURSING . . . . .
... hands that soothe the suffering

EMILY C. CARDEW, M.S.
Dean

To the Nursing Class of 1960:

Commencement period is always one of mixed emotions on the part of the faculty as well as the graduates. At the same time that we are happy for you and proud of you, we are still saddened that our association with you will not be as close, or our meetings as frequent, as they have been in the past. You will be missed.

Even if you leave us for far distant places, that you have been in the College of Nursing will have a lasting effect. A college is more than facilities and more than curricula. The important component is the people, and the students contribute much to this.

Throughout the three years that you have been in the College of Nursing, your influence has been strongly felt. Your loyalty, enthusiasm, and high standards for your own behavior, your College, and your profession, have been an inspiration to the faculty. We have benefited from the time you have spent here, and many of these benefits will be lasting.

We, in turn, have tried to provide the experiences which would prepare you for the challenging opportunities in nursing and for exerting leadership in the years to come. We will be interested in watching your progress.

We welcome you to the profession of nursing and hope that we will now know you as colleagues.

Alpha Tau Delta

Alpha Tau Delta, the national fraternity for women in nursing, was founded February 15, 1921, at the University of California in Berkeley. The fraternity's purposes are to further higher professional educational standards for women in the nursing profession, to inaugurate projects to enrich the field of professional nursing, and to form a close bond of friendship, fellowship and understanding among college women in nursing.

In the fall of 1958, when the school became nationally accredited as a college of nursing, the University became eligible to install a chapter of Alpha Tau Delta. The entire 1959 graduating class as well as twelve members of the class of 1960 were installed as Rho chapter on November 23, 1958. Rho chapter was founded in honor of Dean Emily C. Cardew for her many achievements and efforts in advancing nursing education for women.

Obstetrical Nursing is one of the many courses given junior students. Unique to this subject is the opportunity for the student to teach an "infant care class" to mothers before they leave our O.B. ward.

One course offered in the senior year is Orthopedic Nursing. In this class the students truly appreciate the availability of the newest and latest equipment which is provided by the University of Illinois at Research and Educational Hospitals. Here senior students are learning to use the new Cyclo-Bed from the positions of both patient and nurse.

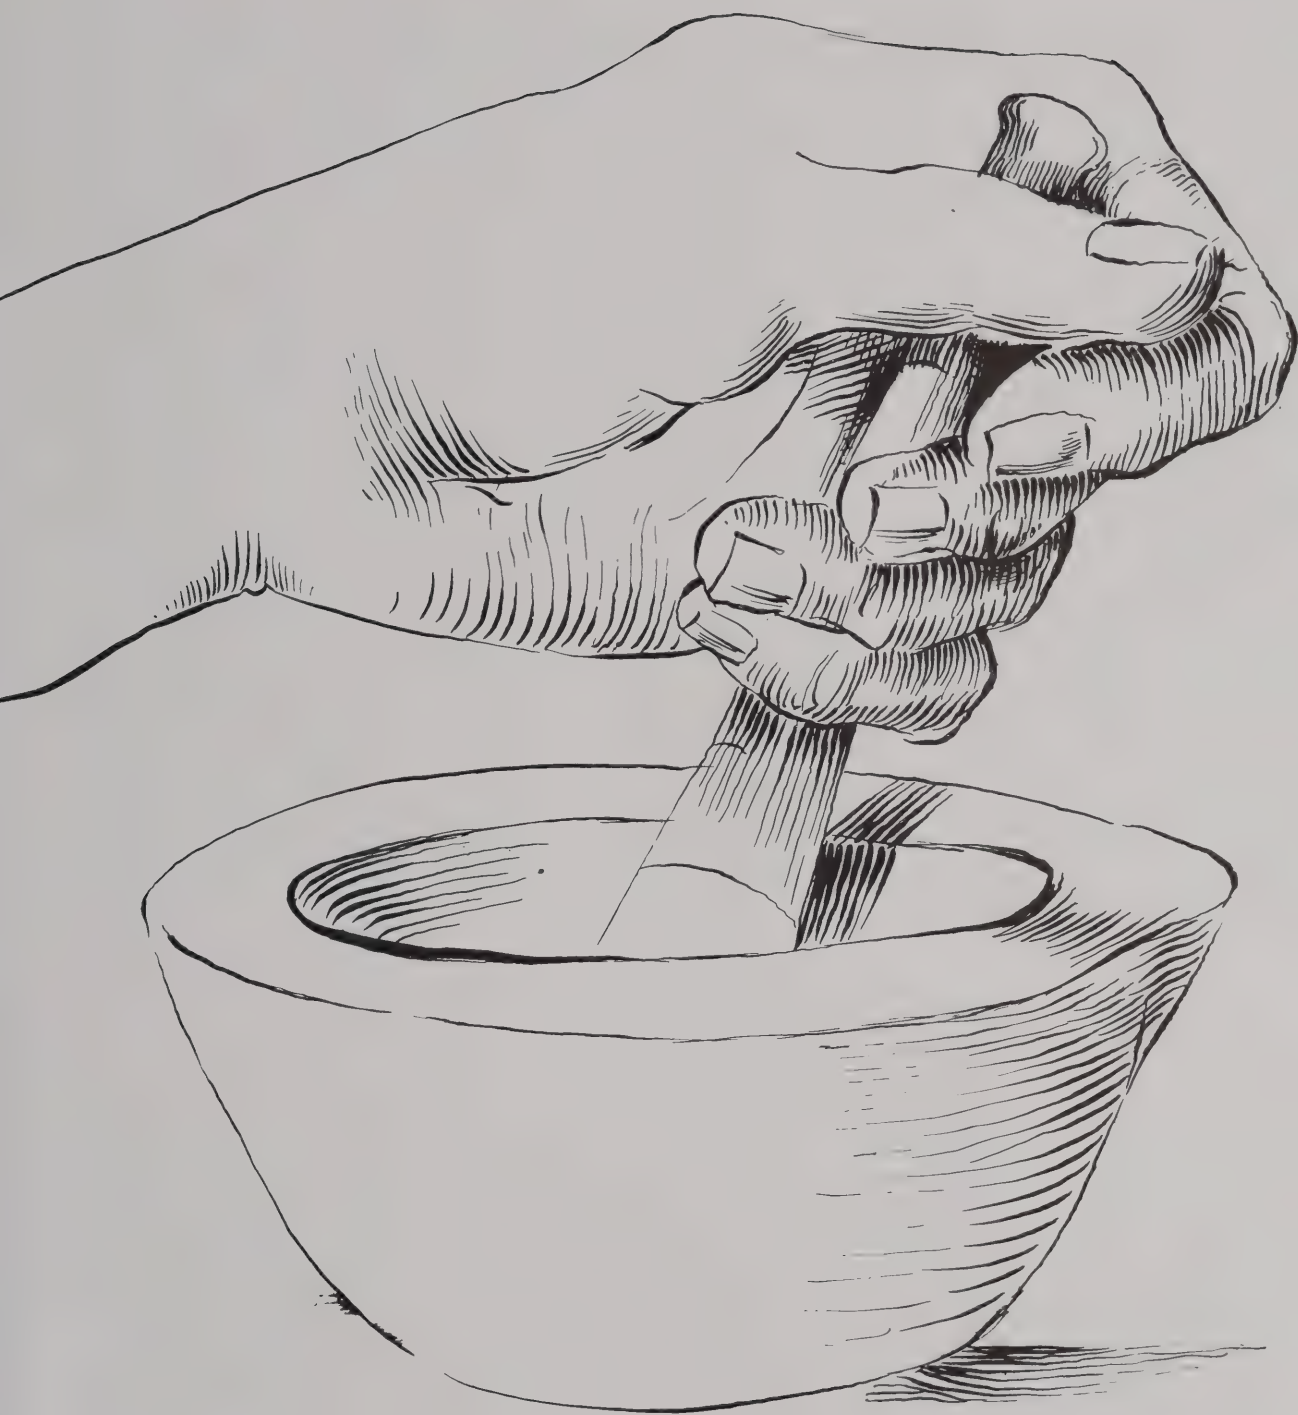

In the winter quarter the 'long-awaited' and 'much-anticipated' time comes for the sophomore nursing student to begin "Foundations of Nursing". This course is the student's first training in nursing arts and clinical application. In this scene the students are practicing some of their newly-learned techniques in the nursing arts lab, which simulates the actual ward situation and patient unit.

GEORGE E. WEBSTER, Ph.D.,
Dean

A little more than one hundred years ago, a group of pharmacists associated themselves in the Chicago College of Pharmacy. Their purpose was to provide a scientific and professional education to the on-coming generation of pharmacists, the young men and women who would carry on the profession creatively. That college became a part of the University of Illinois in 1896 and has been supported and encouraged in its purpose for more than sixty years. Changes and improvements in physical facilities and curriculum have marked the passage of the years. The present building and curriculum are worthy of their vision.

Relationships between the students in the College of Pharmacy and those in other colleges in the University were not close in the early years because of our physical separation from each other. The creation of the Chicago Professional College campus in its present and projected form has done much to create a feeling of inter-professional regard among the students in the professional colleges. The initiation of this year book provides another evidence of the shared experiences which have formed and will, in increasing measure, form the basis for the future cooperation of all the professionals concerned with the restoration of health and the prevention of disease. A particular bond joins all graduates of this campus and the fellowships, grown to adult size between graduates of Illinois, are large enough to include all men and women of the health professions.

It is my sincere wish that this volume shall be number one in a most successful series of ProViews.

Kappa Psi

Kappa Psi has the largest membership of all pharmacy fraternities and is one of the largest of all professional fraternities, with more than twenty thousand members. The members of the fraternity are found in every state and in many foreign countries. Active collegiate chapters are located in many of the principal universities, and graduate chapters are found in many cities and states.

The member of Kappa Psi does not relinquish any of his moral or religious ideals, social or legal rights or political beliefs. His status as an individual changes only in that he voluntarily assumes a new responsibility: that of living up to the professional standards expected of all Kappa Psi men.

Lambda Kappa Sigma

Lambda Kappa Sigma Sorority was organized in 1913 at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and is now the oldest and largest pharmaceutical sorority. The Gamma collegiate chapter has twenty-three active members and is the only pharmaceutical sorority represented on this campus. It is one of thirty-three active national chapters. Its purpose is to provide women in pharmacy an opportunity to advance socially, educationally, and professionally.

Phi Delta Chi

Phi Delta Chi, one of the youngest professional fraternities on campus, has as its objectives the advancement of the science of Pharmacy, its allied interests, and the fostering and promotion of a fraternal spirit among its members. The attainment of these goals by the Alpha Sigma Chapter depends on the enthusiasm and cooperation of every member.

As one of its projects, the fraternity has arranged to send voluntary representatives from among fraternity and faculty members to high schools and junior colleges throughout the state which have expressed an interest in the profession. The social events of the scholastic term are highlighted by the spring formal, this year held at Glendale Country Club.

Rho Pi Phi

To many people on the professional campus Rho Pi Phi is an unfamiliar name. Only last year we were known as Delta Kappa Sigma and now we are Delta Kappa Sigma Chapter of Rho Pi Phi International Pharmaceutical Fraternity.

The activities of Delta Kappa Sigma Chapter are diversified and comprehensive. We are the sole sponsors of the James E. Davis Award, presented annually to an outstanding senior in the Illinois College of Pharmacy. Delta Kappa Sigma has been active in campus affairs for thirty-eight years; during this time it has enjoyed great growth and a fine reputation.

Student American Pharmaceutical Association

The American Pharmaceutical Association is the principal organization in Pharmacy. The organization was founded in 1878, but not until more recent years was a student section formed. Since its beginning, the Illinois student section has become one of the most active branches in the country.

Student membership offers many advantages. Students receive monthly editions of the A.Ph.A. Journal, a professional magazine which keeps them up to date on current trends in Pharmacy. Student sections also provide programs of professional nature which are supplemental to pharmaceutical education, Paramount to all is the opportunity to expose the student to a professional type organization and point out its benefits for both the student and the profession.

This is a laboratory size model of a tablet coating machine. Compressed tablets are coated as they tumble in the pan when the proper liquids and powders are added. Repeated applications add additional layers until the desired thickness is reached. The same procedure is followed in industry.

Pharmacists benefit from experiences

These lecture halls are part of the newest addition to the Pharmacy Building. In use for the second year, the addition is especially appreciated because it eliminates traveling across the street to the DMP Building for pharmacy classes.

When a pharmacy student becomes a junior, he is half a pharmacist in many ways. In one respect he is a practicing pharmacist in this lab since he receives, compounds and dispenses drugs in accordance with the prescriptions he receives from the instructor. Each student has a kit which is equivalent to a complete pharmacy.

Every pharmacy student will recognize this laboratory as one where many hours were spent in gaining knowledge of pharmaceutical technique and of compounding all forms of pharmaceuticals. The sophomore class, pictured here, shares this laboratory with the freshmen.

The Graduate College

The Graduate College offers instruction leading to the degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy in the basic sciences of anatomy, biological or pharmaceutical chemistry, microbiology, pathology, pharmacology, pharmacognosy, physiology, and certain applied science areas. The work is intended primarily for the training of men and women for teaching and research careers in the general health science area. Students who obtain graduate degrees in these areas are ideally oriented for positions on the basic science teaching staffs of dental, medical and pharmacy schools.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES . . . . .

. . . . . relaxation for all hands

Fall . . . let's get organized

Hands clutching worldly possessions, the student arrives in the station. It may be his first collegiate experience or merely continuation at a higher level his ultimate aspirations. The recent high school graduate (this is the last year for no pre-college requirements for pharmacy freshmen) or "seasoned" college student realizes that here he will not be getting just enough to slide by but a continual quest for knowledge he will need as a professional man or woman.

Tussling with a microscope or an armload of books on public transportation is a daily occurrence for many students. Because a good portion of the student body are natives of Chicago or married and live off campus, this vehicle of transportation is quite important. Commuting time is often used for a quick review for a morning quiz, a few extra minutes of sleep, or reading the newspaper to see what the rest of the world is doing.

And so, arriving for the beginning of a year or just another day, our student enters the little world of the Medical Center.

This is where the money goes — to the student bookstore on the fifth floor of the DMP building. Many a stunned student has seen with one fell swoop the labors of the previous summer exchanged for a mound of books and necessary instruments. Operating at top efficiency with their facilities, the onslaught of students every fall literally overwhelms the preparation of the bookstore. Much time has been spent standing in these lines waiting for supplies.

Filling out endless forms, standing in stationary lines, and moving from one strange area to another are part of registration. To a freshman this is the most confusing and tedious part of orientation. Thanks to modernization with IBM machines, the upperclassmen have an easier time. Selection of courses in a professional curriculum is done largely by the college, thus differing from that of the undergraduate college.

Two typical student comments are heard here: "Are you sure I need this?" and "You said how much?"

Contrary to popular belief, these men are not holding draft induction notices, but rather, registration forms for the payment of fees at the cashiers windows in the East DMP Building.

... getting the "scoop" on the Big U.

The days just preceding actual classroom work are quite hectic for the freshmen. Where to purchase supplies, the location of classrooms, transportation facilities, and the schedule of available campus extracurricular activities are just a few of the many questions of incoming students. The different colleges, in cooperation with the Union, help to answer many of these questions with selected speakers, tours around campus, and informal discussions. These programs are re-evaluated each year by the colleges and the participating students so that improvement and revision are the bywords.

The Student Residence Hall is one of the most modern buildings on campus. Besides its dormitory function, it is a favorite meeting spot to enjoy a quick snack or to have a bull session over a cup of coffee. The dorm is well equipped, having pool and ping-pong tables as well as a lounge complete with a television set. On week-ends the student-priced movies are shown so that inexpensive entertainment is available to the student. The Residence Hall is somewhat unique in the fact that men and women students are housed in the same building.

"Here's your list of dormitory rules and regulations."

This is where we work and sometimes play.

The dorm's modern rooms help to make the students' heavy study schedule much more bearable. The married students enjoy the pleasure of home-cooked meals and rarely suffer from claustrophobia. The facilities of the Staff Apartment Building are conveniently located as compared to non-medical center apartments. Fraternity living is being part of a group. Besides adequate housing, the Ashland Avenue fraternities provide much to the student in the way of extracurricular activities such as sports, parties and general group participation.

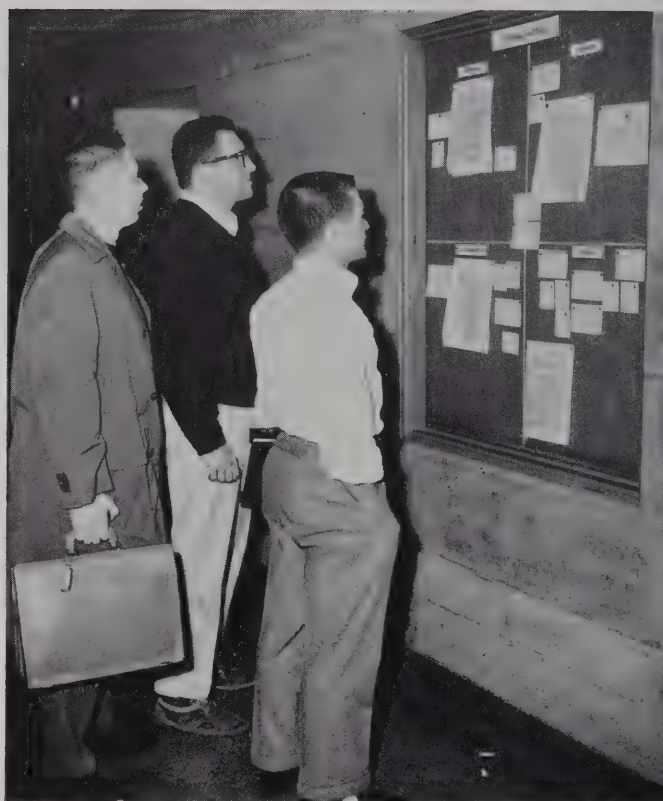

This is where we work.

This is where we play and sometimes work.

No news is good news, usually -

All settled in his particular nook, a typical day begins for our academic hero. Bouncing bleary-eyed from his sack, he marches into a world of bugs, caries, needles and pills (tablets, that is). A statue is a dedication to a great man; a dormitory is a foundation to the formation of a great man. Here pictured is our monument . . .

Contrary to popular opinion, lecture halls are not always rooms filled with eager note-taking students; they can be used for filling a decreased sleeping schedule.

A familiar sight on campus is Mike selling papers with his classic "Hello, Doctor" comment. Mike has been selling papers for many years at this location and is as much a part of the campus as the Union Building.

Speaking of the Union, it's noon and time to run over for a quick lunch. Through these doors enter professors, students and nurses to enjoy the Union's varied facilities. The relaxing atmosphere of the Union helps the busy student to temporarily forget his academic work long enough to enjoy his friends and to make new acquaintances.

Many students find the mental exercise of bridge a welcome relief from the formulas of biochemistry or the mechanisms of physiology. It is a rare occasion during the lunch hour not to see at least six card games in progress. These card games have become so popular that often the fraternities sponsor card parties at night. Card playing is not only enjoyed by the students but by the faculty as well and student-faculty games are not uncommon.

Because of increased enrollment and popularity, the Union's second floor eating facilities were rapidly outgrown. The third floor, previously a game room, has been converted to a combination dining and game room. Pool and ping-pong tables are available for student use. It is evident that further expansion will be needed.

Not only are these facilities utilized during the school day but also in the evening. Every night campus-affiliated groups use the lounge or conference rooms for dinner and/or meetings. The Union is surely the social hub of the campus!

Comes one o'clock and the average student has once again a class to attend, such as histology for the freshman or a conference for an upperclassman.

"One must be able to recognize normal tissue if one expects to be able to recognize abnormal tissue." Microscopic anatomy is of paramount importance in the study of the health sciences. To the student the multitudinous slides coupled with fine differential points make for many hours of 'scope gazing. Histology also doubles as a P.E. course for medical and dental students since microscopes are carried to and from the laboratory.

For those of the medical profession who prefer to work with the "little people", infant formulas, injection schedules, crying babies, and apprehensive mothers are just part of a day's work. Upon revision of the clerkship schedule, pediatrics is now a junior year course rather than a fourth year class. Due to an increasing shortage of pediatricians, a growing interest in residency has occurred.

One of the most popular lines on campus is located at the Student Residence Hall. Nothing beats that cup of coffee as an afternoon 'picker-upper' in the middle of one of those lengthy labs.

At the busy Union desk the girls cheerfully supply the students with cards, magazines, records and a friendly smile, which helps to pass away the time until "today's driver" gets out of class.

The owner will be doubly thrilled since he got a 47 on a quiz today.

"The night has a thousand eyes,
And the day but one;
Yet the light of the bright world dies
With the dying sun."

Coffee Hour at the Union is the time to relax, watch a short movie, or play a quick game of cards. Below, is one of the several Union sponsored mixers.

Our governing board, Executive Student Council, composed of elected representatives from each college and piloted by Truman Anderson, is far from a vestigial organ of the student body. It gives active and thoughtful projection of the original ideas brought before the council in an effort to administer student needs away from the classrooms and clinics. It has underwritten many student projects, school functions and, very proudly, this year-book.

The colleges have tried to minimize the feeling of an "all male" school by providing facilities like this for our female students.

The Union Committees are the nucleus of the campus' extracurricular activity. Through their efforts a well balanced social program is available to every student. Their main contributions are the coffee hours, Holiday Sing, Winter Carnival (see page 114) and the ProView.

Starting a yearbook is quite a difficult task. Separating this campus from the down-state campus in the yearbook was a momentous decision reached in the spring of 1959. Both downstate editors and the Chicago committee thought that severance was the solution to the lack of interest in the yearbook. The ProView staff has tried hard to present the CPC student a yearbook that is written for him, by him and about him.

Newman Club

Holiday Sing, an annual Illini Union event, could not be the beautiful affair that it is without the aid of creative hands decorating the Main Lounge Christmas tree and surrounding area. On December fourth the participating groups each rendered two or three vocal selections interspersed with audience singing. Later in the evening there was a dance in the cafeteria to the music of a live and lively combo.

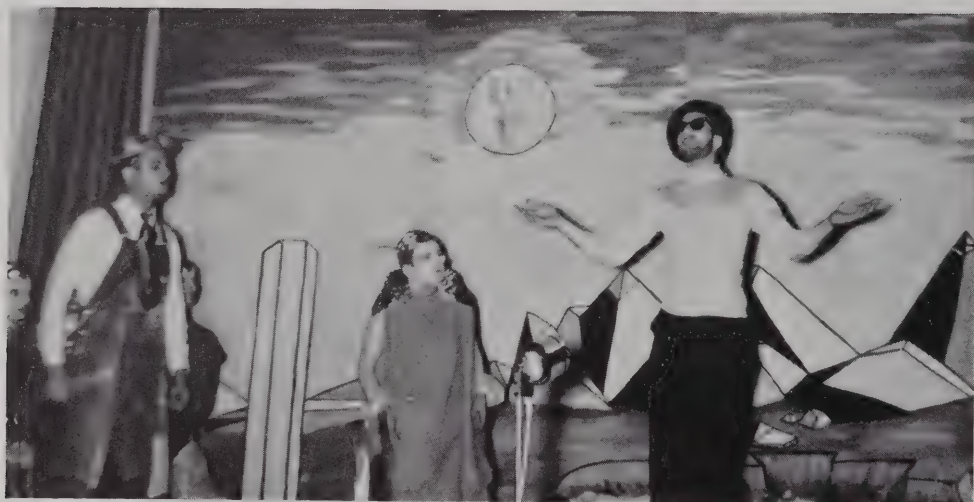

All pleasant things require planning, of course, and someone must give assistance and help organize. The efficient Union Social Director, Miss Grace Bacon (pictured below), did a fine job of correlating the work of the individual committee workers, darting into the Union between classes for a short bit of business. Grace has become, by necessity, an expert at tackling students as they pass by her office.

Winter Carnival

Creatively, imaginatively, theatrically, thoughtfully, and even sometimes grudgingly, the student in one of the competitive groups works toward that day when the Winter Carnival arrives, turning ideas into reality. Finally when the doors of Cregier School opened on February 27 to admit the public, the culmination of at least two months' work by the Social Committee and the performers was unleashed in four hours of gala showmanship.

Especially did the applause come for the judges' choice for Carnival Queen, best show, best movie and the best booth. Special credit should also go to Al Bass (D-4), Social Committee chairman, and his co-workers for the smoothly run evening.

Audience gayety and laughter mean another skit is afoot!

The winter months bring a time when all students, pressed by the heat of winter's academic pressure, need to direct their energies in a social vein. These inside diversions, before spring draws all outside, take place on Ashland fraternity row, a hotel ballroom or a quiet (?) corner at the Greeks.

One of the traditions of annual frolic and enjoyment for all dental students and faculty is the Cuspid Capers Dinner Dance held early in the spring quarter. Fast-moving skits scattered throughout the evening, dinner, refreshments, and dancing replace studious concentration.

It is another one of those "letters from Mama" as Dr. John Spence plays Charlie Weaver.

Busybodies are often busy beavers . . .

There's Father Young again, spreading the art of the social graces. Be it Commencement or commotion, the sailing rector is right at hand.

Physical Education

The students at the Professional Colleges are entering into the most arduous of educational endeavors. The University recognizes the need for physical activity as a means of diversion and relaxation from a full schedule.

The program is divided into four areas: physical education, where the student learns basic skills in sports and methods of maintaining an optimum degree of fitness; intramural sports, which consists of competition in team and individual sports; recreational service, comprising a variety of non-competitive sports, and varsity athletics. The program is open and available to all students.

The intramural section consists of five team sports and six individual sports. A team and individual championship trophy is awarded each year to the group and individual scoring the most points cumulatively in competition.

Watch out for a spike!

"Spring has sprung, the grass has riz; I wonder where the flowers is." We know! They were trampled underfoot as the Illinois students hit the forest preserves.

Spring . . . the fruits of labor

And so another year comes to an end. To most it has been a time filled with pleasant memories and a heck of a lot of honest, hard work. Both the conscientious instructor and student are rewarded for a job well done.

A myriad of Senior Farewells, honorary banquets, and the inevitable final exams bring the year to a sudden end — but only the beginning of professional service to society. The Senior now has the coveted professional degree. His hands are ready to work.

Dr. James Gagnon (right) is the distinguished recipient of the freshman, sophomore and all-school Golden Apple Awards from the College of Dentistry.

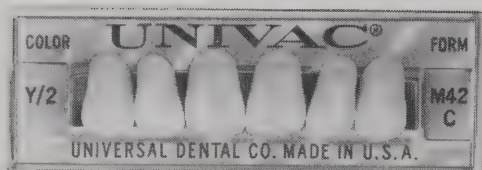

Senior Larry Bushu, bearded for the College of Pharmacy Centennial, receives that school's Best Student Award in the spring of '59.

Here at long last is an entirely new and radiant lifeluculent porcelain of exquisite beauty . . . new glowing "aliveness" . . . new "living" colors and color dispersions. These have been integrated by advanced techniques and electronic processes, creating a natural 3-dimensional effect so brilliantly alive in the mouth that it is virtually impossible to distinguish them from vital teeth.

Univac Porcelain is not merely an improvement—it is truly a completely new achievement of tooth porcelain research and development.

Call your Universal Dealer for a demonstration. Do see Univac Anteriors . . . see their light-absorbing properties so precisely matched-in-depth to human teeth. You'll insist upon Univac . . . and only Univac . . . for your patients. ★ ★ ★

THE INTERNAL CLOCK

The ability to judge intervals of time is a basic mental function. In order to learn how drugs affect this "internal clock," SK&F scientists use a test in which a monkey must hit a lever after an interval of 20 seconds to obtain food.

When he is under the influence of certain drugs, "time flies" and he misses the pay-off period by hitting the lever too late. Other drugs make "time drag" and he misses the pay-off period by hitting the lever too soon.

Because one of the characteristics of many mental disorders is a distortion of the time sense, observing how drugs affect this primary psychological process may reveal valuable information that will help SK&F scientists in discovering effective treatments for mental illness.

This, the last page, is finally completed! Compiling a yearbook for the first time with an inexperienced staff under semi-experienced editors has been a big job, with “Re-write” becoming somewhat monotonous. Without the sustained interest of a small nucleus of persons, this project would not have reached completion. I thank Grace Bacon (now Mrs. John Bacher), Illini Union Social Director, Judy Pacey and Gayle Ruttenberg for their untiring efforts at all the tedious tasks (I told them we didn’t have to have an index . . . ) and coping with problems away from their line of duty, from typing to copy-reading.

Gordon Hamilton and Zane Muhl were the two staff members who consistently superseded their assigned jobs to help with layouts and other editorial responsibilities. Bill O’Conner, the engraver and printer representative, was there to lead us by the hand whenever we sent up a red flare. The Public Information Office was quite tolerant of our rummaging through their picture files and Wayne Connery, who has since left the Office, helped immeasurably during the embryo stages of development.

But not only were there production difficulties, but just starting an annual for a University is a maze of red tape. Without the financial backing of the Executive Student Council and the approval of the Committee on Student Affairs, our rocket would have never reached orbit. The “count-down” days last spring were quite filled with apprehension.

And last, but certainly not least, hats off to Ira Gold for naming our yearbook. I’m sure he was pleased with his “sawbuck” and free copy, too!

Many thanks to any and all who helped create the 1960 ProView.

—Steve Lindell
